It is said that he has not changed hits views.

Without interfering in any way with the control and management of public education by the States, the Federal Government could extend aid to the States or the promotion of physical education, Americanization of foreign born, eradication of illiteracy, better training of teachers and for probabiling free educational op-portunities for all children. It is de-clared that Mr. Harding has in mind appointing a woman to be first sec-retary of a department of education, but legislation will, of course, be nec-essary before the new department could be created.
